

Application form for the 4th International CWD Conference Early-career Professional Travel Grant 2023

The early-career travel grant applies to the 4th International CWD Conference taking place in Denver Colorado, USA from May 31 - June 2, 2023. Two (2) early-career professionals will be selected for this grant. The definition of an early-career professional for the purposes of this award is a person who has been in their careers for less than 5 years. This category can include professionals from a variety of groups, including but not limited to: academia, government, non-profit, etc. It is up to the applicant to check with their institutions regarding the approval for acceptance of a travel award.

Early-career professionals awarded this travel grant will have up to 7 days to acknowledge receipt of the award (by responding to the email notification), and up to 14 days from initial notification to provide proof of conference registration. If these deadlines are not met, the early career professional will forfeit the award and it will be offered to the runner-up.

Name:

Email address:

Phone number:

Which country (countries) do you have permanent citizenship for?

Did you submit an abstract to the 4th International CWD Conference? Yes No

Please list your educational background and current position (including the location (country)):

Year Period	Degree	University/Position	Location/Country

Please write a statement (maximum 300 words) including the following information:

“How would attending the 4th International CWD conference:

- gain exposure for your research,
- establish new collaborations,
- provide invaluable career-advancement opportunities”